RE: Treaty 4 Agricultural Benefits Update

The Day Star First Nation Treaty 4 Agricultural Benefits specific claim relates to Canada's failure to provide our Nation with the agricultural benefits and assistance that was promised under Treaty 4.

The specific claim was deemed filed in April 2023. We have been in negotiations with Canada since October 2024.

Canada has not yet made a formal offer to settle this claim, however, this may occur in the coming weeks.

If Canada makes a formal offer to settle that is acceptable, the offer can only be approved by a ratification vote of Day Star membership.

If Canada makes a formal offer to settle, detailed information packages will be made available to all Day Star eligible voting members and details of the ratification process will be posted. The ratification process will involve formal information meetings at which members will be able to ask questions of Chief and Council, legal counsel, and Day Star's financial advisors. All information regarding the ratification process will be posted at the Day Star offices and made available on our website in advance.

Be advised that all information regarding this claim is privileged and confidential to Day Star members only.

We will provide any further updates as soon as any new information becomes available. In the meantime, please do not hesitate to contact Administration if you have any questions about the current status or next steps of the Claim.
